The Lumbermen's Lament

AN ORIGINAL WHO-DUN-IT

By LUKE J. KONKOL

While Point Basse holds its mysteries, its relationship to the lumber industry is no secret. When a crew of lumber men came to Point Basse for the height of the summer logging season, they arrived with a whole cast of characters: a steward hired by the rail company, a laundress, a cook, and the crew's foreman Clive Dustin. Foreman "Dusty" turned up dead shortly after they arrived... It is summer in Point Basse, after all. What's more, that steward is rumored to be something of an amateur code-breaker and a number of seemingly coded messages have appeared around town. But does this have anything to do with the foreman's death?

Join the citizens of Point Basse for an afternoon of secrets, cyphers, and suspects! Can YOU crack the code? Perhaps it will even help you figure out WHO-DUN-IT!
